

Section 1: Introduction

Background

In the current scenario, English is the language of international communication, higher learning and better career options. It should, therefore, reach the masses so that there is no discrimination amongst the rich and poor in Pakistan in terms of opportunities for personal, professional and economic development.

With this perspective, teaching of English has been introduced as a language from grade one and would be used as a medium of instruction across the curriculum for various subjects. This, as well as, the wide spread exposure to English language through the media, endorses the present curriculum revision exercise, along with development of new text books and assessment strategies to improve the quality of teaching and learning of English, nationwide.

The new curriculum aims to provide holistic opportunities to the students for language development and to equip them with competencies in using the English language for communication in academic and social contexts, while enabling them to be autonomous and lifelong learners to better adapt to the ever changing local and world society, and to knowledge advancement.

The present National Curriculum for grades I-XII has been developed after detailed deliberations with relevant stakeholders including selected language experts from all the provinces in Pakistan. It is hoped that this curriculum document will serve as a point of reference for all involved in the process of teaching and learning of English in Pakistan.

1.1: Statement of Philosophy

For the majority of Pakistani students, learning the English language is rarely a subconscious process. The learners have few opportunities to absorb the language from the environment to acquire a natural feel for appropriate linguistic structure, vocabulary and style in varied contexts of use, both in academic and social settings. Hence, it is not the students who lack the capacity to learn but the total academic setting whose capacity needs to be built up. The learners, therefore, have to be provided with formal opportunities to learn the language in an instructional setting through a well thought-out and organized curriculum. The current curriculum aims to serve as a guide for teachers, learners, textbook developers, assessors and all other users. It is recognized that the instructional settings vary greatly in Pakistan in terms of teachers' background and proficiency in English, students' background and opportunities for exposure and/or use of English at home and in the community outside the school and classroom context, as well as, the resources available for teaching and learning of English. However, it is hoped that the competencies and standards defined in this curriculum will provide a roadmap for development of both human and financial resources in schools for quality teaching and learning of English to all children in Pakistan.

The curriculum is designed, particularly, to promote the academic and employment language needs for learners who wish to pursue their higher studies, as well as, for those who might terminate education after grade XII. Consequently, it aims to offer academic and practical skills that learners can use to complete their studies or build their careers after graduating from school. The curriculum is multidimensional and incorporates all components of language, i.e., phonology, grammar, lexis, discourse, and language functions and skills. Emphasis is placed on developing competency in all areas of the language. Skills and micro skills related to a particular standard are identified and developed through various processes and strategies.

The content and the process of learning are structured and integrated in such a way so as to realize the standards for key competencies through spiral progression with a major focus on development of language skills rather than on content. Functional, mass media, literary and every day texts provide a context for the teaching of the micro skills and strategies used in listening, speaking, reading and writing. The teaching strategies ensure that work in speaking, listening, reading and writing is integrated. Students learn to acquire information and ideas through reading and listening, and to effectively communicate their ideas through writing and speaking.

Listening and speaking skills are to be developed in the classroom context. Due to resources constraints, it is not possible in this first phase of curriculum revision to have recorded cassettes or to test listening and speaking skills in all educational settings. However, understanding of appropriate language use in different contexts will be tested through the written exam designed for just this purpose. This might appear artificial and contrived but it is felt that it is better to expose students to such learning experiences than to have no opportunities to engage in oral communication. It is planned that, in the second phase, cassettes for practicing both intensive and extensive listening for wider language exposure can be used.

The curriculum also aims to provide language learning and teaching experiences within national and cultural bounds while encouraging the learners to be autonomous and lifelong learners.

To summarize, the curriculum places greater emphasis on the understanding and use of the English language in different academic and social contexts than on acquiring knowledge about the language for its own sake. Such an approach acknowledges, on one hand, the importance of teaching the knowledge about the language system; on the other, it moves a step forward to emphasize the appropriate use of that knowledge so that students' ability to communicate in real life situations is improved and made effective for various purposes.

1.2: Process of curriculum development

An analysis of the educational context including the teachers and learners, particularly in public sector schools in Pakistan portrays its lacks and needs. In the light of the suggestions, recommendations and the identified constraints and limitations of the teachers and learner, and inadequate learning resources, development of the following competencies in the English language were focused on in the curriculum:

- Reading and Thinking Skills
- Writing Skills
- Oral Communication Skills
- Formal and Lexical Aspects of Language
- Appropriate Ethical and Social Development

For developing the curriculum, firstly the language needs of a grade XII student were envisioned. Keeping this end in sight, competencies and standards for learning (terminal attainment targets) were developed. In the next stage, benchmarks were identified based on competencies and standards for learning defined earlier. Finally, student learning outcomes were developed grade-wise for different stages of schooling. A learner will only be able to meet the student learning outcome specified for his/her level if the skill is first introduced, explained and then reinforced through practice activities. For this, it is essential that all the major skills identified are taught in a spiral progression. Such activities are to be incorporated at each grade that cater for progressive cognitive development from lower level intellectual skills of simple knowledge and comprehension to higher order skills of analysis, synthesis and evaluation so as to nurture the ability of reasoning, problem solving, critical thinking and creativity.

Figure1. Curriculum Development Process

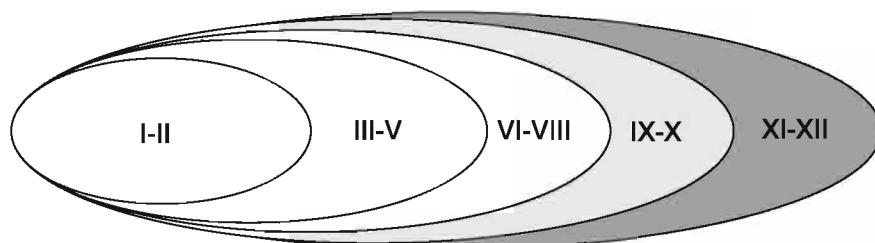

1.3: Organization of the curriculum framework

In terms of the curriculum, education from grades I-XII forms an integral whole. However, for a description of performance, five developmental levels have been identified. The framework has been formulated, keeping in mind the ultimate requirement of Grade XII students' academic, job-related, social and individual language needs. It is very important that curriculum content is relevant to age and intellectual level of learner:

Developmental Levels

Grades
I-II	At this level, the young learners are helped to get a solid start in developing readiness for subsequent work and learning in relevant and focused areas of knowledge, skills and understanding. This would steer them into becoming autonomous learners. They should learn aspects of a foreign language which are parallel to their current level of command of their own language. Earliest activities are mostly lexical with structural activities playing a formulaic role. All can be modified for language teaching purposes.
III-V	At this level, the learners are introduced to the various forms and functions of language, equipping them with relevant skills for handling knowledge appropriate for their age. The learners acquire initial content knowledge and develop the skills and understanding to build a foundation for later studies. They also require a logical and critical approach as ideas and abstractions are numerous and complex, so content material has to be more structured.
VI-VIII	At this level, a lot of grounding is done and practice given specially in the basic language work so that a strong, adequate language foundation is built. Attention is focused on thorough and effective teaching rather than in trying to cover a wide range of areas. This is an important transitional phase; building from primary, and moving towards secondary education.
IX-X	This level builds on earlier work, and the language learnt at the previous level is consolidated. The learners are equipped with skills essential not only for their current needs but also for future academic and social needs. Language, being the base of all knowledge, competency / proficiency in English Language will help learners attain proficiency in other subject areas, hence, reinforcing and furthering knowledge in other disciplines.
XI-XII	This level is the terminal level for those who discontinue education to look for jobs, while others branch off into their respective specialized areas for further study. The language curriculum for this level takes into account the general and specialized language needs of both aforementioned categories. The curriculum is, therefore, designed to cater for these groups. The content and type of reading texts, as well as the skills, functions and vocabulary to be taught are all determined by these concerns.

Section 2: Competencies, Standards, Benchmarks and Student Learning Outcomes

Competency: A key learning area.

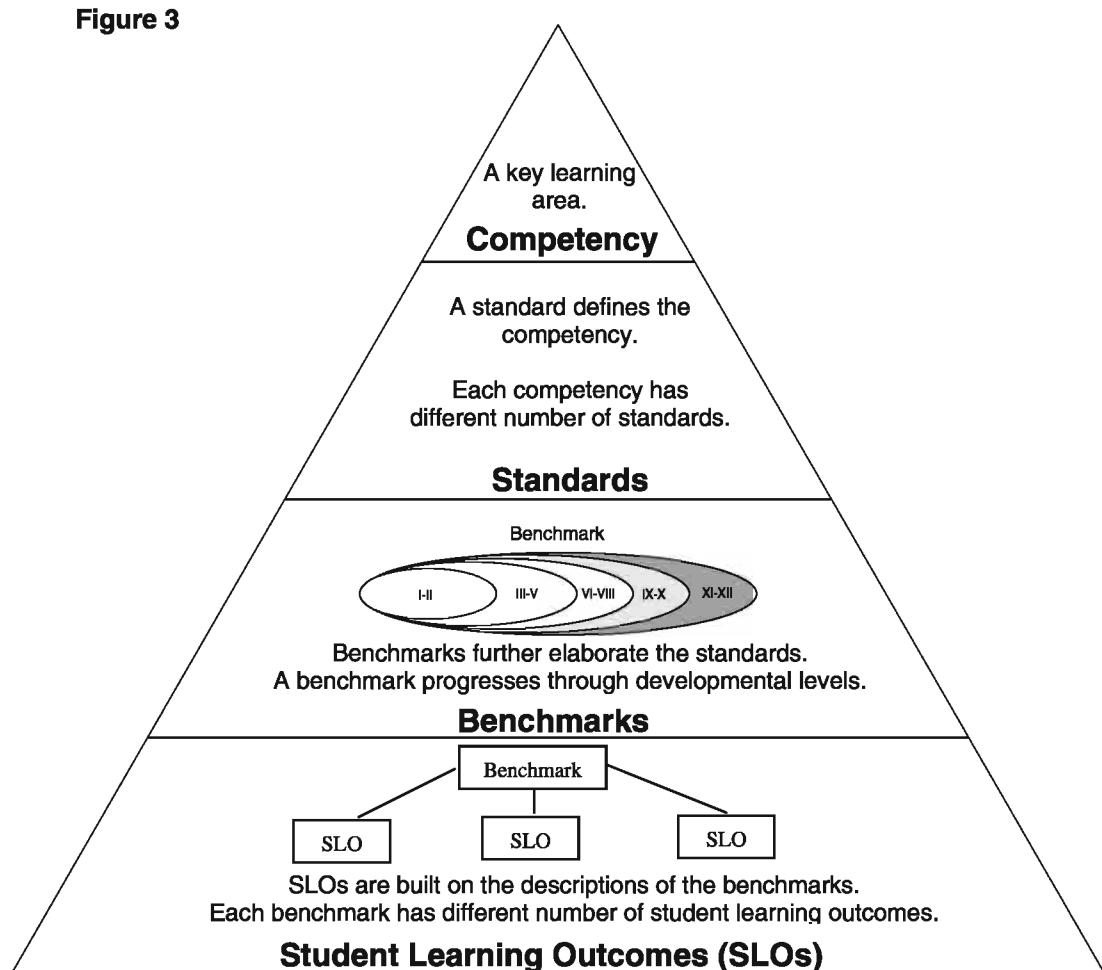

Standards: These define the competency by specifying broadly, the knowledge, skills and attitudes that students will acquire, should know and be able to do in a particular key learning area during twelve years of schooling.

Benchmarks: The benchmarks further elaborate the standards, indicating what the students will accomplish at the end of each of the five developmental levels in order to meet the standard. These provide at a glance, the continuum of the English language learning e.g. benchmarks for grades I and II define what the students will be able to do by the end of grade II.

Student Learning Outcomes (SLOs): These are built on the descriptions of the benchmarks and describe what students will accomplish at the end of each grade. Most student learning outcomes progress and develop across grades where each skill is revisited, revised and reinforced. It is important to remember that learning outcomes within a competency or across competencies overlap and are interrelated; progress towards one outcome is often dependant upon progress towards another. Cumulative student learning outcomes for a particular academic year specify what the students will be able to do at the end of the academic year. The outcomes are realistic, observable, achievable and measurable. Some of the student learning outcomes might not be testable in the Board examinations due to constraints, but considering their importance these have been incorporated and are to be tested during formative assessment in the classroom.

The learning outcomes of the English key learning area contribute significantly to lifelong learning. The aim is to help students achieve these outcomes through extended engagement with texts and language, and by developing a variety of literacy practices over the years of compulsory schooling. To attain a spiral build-up, all the elements in each standard are introduced, focused, revisited, revised and reinforced.

This figure illustrates the organization of the curriculum framework:

In this document, competencies, standards, and benchmarks are coded for easy use.

C	Competency.
C1...C5	Subsequent number of competencies.
S	Standard.
S1...S3	Subsequent number of standards in each competency.
BM	Benchmark.
BM1...BM4	Subsequent number of benchmarks at each developmental level.
Example of coding: C1S2BM3	Competency 1, Standard 2, Benchmark 3

2.1: Competencies in English language

The curriculum identifies five competencies and a total of eight standards for key learning areas of the English language. The fifth competency specifies the appropriate ethical and social development and is to be developed and incorporated across the other four competencies through selection of appropriate texts and activities.

Competencies and their Standards:

Competency 1: Reading and Thinking Skills	Standards 1, 2
Competency 2: Writing Skills	Standard 1
Competency 3: Oral Communication Skills	Standard 1
Competency 4: Formal and Lexical Aspects of Language	Standards 1, 2, 3
Competency 5: Appropriate Ethical and Social Development	Standard 1

The order in which the standards are listed does not indicate the relative importance of the standard. All are equally important.

2.2: Rationale for Competencies and Standards

Competency 1: Reading and Thinking Skills - Standards 1, 2 (C1, S1, S2)

Standard 1: All students will search for, discover and understand a variety of text types through tasks which require multiple reading and thinking strategies for comprehension, fluency and enjoyment.

Standard 2: All students will read and analyze literary text to seek information, ideas, enjoyment, and to relate their own experiences to those of common humanity as depicted in literature.

Rationale:

Reading is an individual exercise; we interact with the text, using prior knowledge of the world to create meaning and understanding. The reading speed and comprehension level can be increased through strategies suitable for the purpose of reading and the type of text being read. It is, therefore, essential to sensitize the students to the fact that good reading does not mean reading aloud or learning all the new words in the reading text and answering all the comprehension questions.

Better readers are the ones who are equipped with the skills of purposeful reading. These skills can be developed through awareness raising and practice activities. The aim should be to use the texts to teach reading, and not reading to teach texts. Written texts that deal with common human experiences, contemporary information and issues are proposed as the context for the learning of processes, skills and strategies, but the approach of the curriculum goes beyond reading. In fact, the reading component serves as a spring board for the development of integrated language skills, and for enhancing cognitive and affective domains, enabling the students to think critically and creatively.

One important medium to get the feel for a language and its idiom is its literature; in order to provide this learning experience literary texts are included. The aim is not to teach advanced literary appreciation skills, but the acquisition of language skills through activities and exercises based on these texts.

The learners will, hence, be provided opportunities for understanding expressive and narrative texts, and once initiated into this process they would be able to seek enjoyment through extensive reading on their own.

The chosen material should be contemporary and should reflect the specified themes. All reading material in the text book should require learners to work at a level slightly above their receptive ability, only then will they be stimulated enough to stretch themselves cognitively.

The reading texts will comprise a variety of text types e.g. interpersonal and transactional, expository, descriptive, narrative and argumentative with literary texts comprising 25% of the reading material.

Competency 2: Writing Skills - Standard 1 (C2, S1)

Standard 1: All students will produce with developing fluency and accuracy, academic, transactional and creative writing, which is focused, purposeful and shows an insight into the writing process.

Rationale:

Writing is a complex communicative activity; at the time one is searching for vocabulary to express one's thought, his or her mind might race ahead to another idea and the new insight may contradict the original ideas. It is, therefore, essential that the final writing is focused, coherent and cohesive, with a clear overall progression. It should take into account the purpose of writing, as well as, the audience for the written piece. In order to present a well written text, it is essential, therefore, that students view writing as a process; and are taught to approach their writing deliberately in three stages. In pre-writing stage, a topic / text is chosen, narrowed down, ideas generated, gathered and then organized. In the second stage of drafting, the ideas are converted into sentences and paragraphs. In the third stage of revising, the ideas are reorganized, clarified and then finally, the draft is edited for errors and omissions so as to improve its style.

Competency 3: Oral Communication Skills - Standard 1 (C3, S1)

Standard 1: All students will use appropriate social and academic conventions of spoken discourse for effective oral communication with individuals and in groups, in both informal and formal settings.

Rationale:

Language functions are the purposes for which people speak or write. The purpose may be to present a point of view, to ask for information or any other. Therefore, it is essential to use those appropriate language expressions which are best suited for the communicative purpose. The expression i.e. the form of language that is used is determined by the level of formality of a situation, the type of message which is to be communicated, as well as, the relationship of the addresser and addressee. It is essential that the students are sensitized to the correct conventions of expression in different settings so that they use language appropriately, according to the occasion and audience.

Competency 4: Formal and Lexical Aspects of Language - Standards 1, 2, 3 (C4, S1, S2, S3)

Standard 1, Pronunciation: All students will understand and articulate widely acceptable pronunciation, stress and intonation patterns of the English language for improved communication.

Standard 2, Vocabulary: All students will enhance vocabulary for effective communication.

Standard 3, Grammar and Structure: All students will understand grammatical functions and use the principles of grammar, punctuation, and syntax for developing accuracy in their spoken and written communication.

Rationale:

Formal aspects of a language i.e. the sound system and grammar are the tool for oral and written communication. This tool would be ineffective if it is not supported by sufficient vocabulary to aid expression. Grammatical and phonetic exercises combined with vocabulary development are of immense importance as natural preparations for oral and written production of language. Correct grammar, appropriate vocabulary, speech, and cohesive and coherent written composition are integral parts of a whole; hence, equally important.

Competency 5: Appropriate Ethical and Social Development (C5, S1)

Standard 1: All students will develop ethical and social attributes and values relevant in a multicultural, civilized society.

Rationale:

The world is increasingly becoming a global village with people of different languages and cultures coming in frequent contact both at intra and international levels. Text content provides a realistic and diverse learning exposure, and is an important mode for developing a personal world view. Texts that reflect multiple perspectives and diverse communities create awareness about contemporary ideas, issues and themes; and inculcate ethical and social attributes, and values relevant in a multicultural society.

2.3: Summary of Competencies and Standards

C1	Reading and Thinking Skills	S1	All students will search for, discover and understand a variety of text types through tasks which require multiple reading and thinking strategies for comprehension, fluency and enjoyment
		S2	All students will read and analyze literary text to seek information, ideas, enjoyment, and to relate their own experiences to those of common humanity as depicted in literature.
C2	Writing Skills	S1	All students will produce with developing fluency and accuracy, academic, transactional and creative writing, which is focused, purposeful and shows an insight into the writing process.
		S1	All students will use appropriate social and academic conventions of spoken discourse for effective oral communication with individuals and in groups, in both informal and formal settings.
C3	Oral Communication Skills	S1	Pronunciation: All students will understand and articulate widely acceptable pronunciation, stress and intonation patterns of the English language for improved communication.
		S2	Vocabulary: All students will enhance vocabulary for effective communication.
C4	Formal and Lexical Aspects of Language	S3	Grammar and structure: All students will understand grammatical functions and use the principles of grammar, punctuation, and syntax for developing accuracy in their spoken and written
C5	Appropriate Ethical and Social Development	S1	All students will develop ethical and social attributes and values relevant in a multicultural, civilized society.

2.4: Competencies, Standards and Benchmarks

Competency 1: Reading and Thinking Skills (C1)

Standard 1: All students will search for, discover and understand a variety of text types through tasks which require multiple reading and thinking strategies for comprehension, fluency and enjoyment (C1, S1)
 (The reading texts will comprise a variety of text types e.g. interpersonal and transactional, expository, descriptive and narrative with literary texts comprising 25% of the reading material)

Please note: As the reader will observe, in the benchmarks below different kinds of oral and written tasks are used to measure students' development of reading comprehension. However, it is emphasized that the function of writing tasks here is to demonstrate and evaluate learners' comprehension of the material read.

Benchmarks

	Grades I - II	Grades III - V	Grades VI - VIII	Grades IX - X	Grades XI - XII
BM 1	Use reading readiness strategies; recognize words and sentences as meaningful units of expression and paragraphs as graphical units of expression.	Identify digraphs, silent letters, and inflections in words; comprehend words, sentences and paragraphs as meaningful units of expression.	Analyze patterns of text organization, and function of various devices used in a paragraph.	Analyze patterns of text organization, and function of various devices used within and beyond a paragraph in a text.	Evaluate patterns of text organization, and function of various devices used within and beyond a paragraph in a text.
BM 2	Identify factual information applying reading comprehension and thinking strategies.	Interpret factual information, new processes and procedures, personal, school and public related information, applying reading comprehension and thinking strategies.	Extend conceptual understanding of processes, procedures, events and issues, applying reading comprehension and thinking strategies.	Analyze complex processes, procedures, events, issues, and various viewpoints, applying reading comprehension and thinking strategies.	Analyze, synthesize and evaluate events, issues, ideas and viewpoints, applying reading comprehension and thinking strategies.
BM 3	Locate information from a visual cue or a graphic organizer and express the information verbally.	Comprehend information from a visual cue or a graphic organizer to describe positions, directions, events, sequences, and to show comparison and contrast.	Interpret information from a visual cue or a graphic organizer to give directions, describe positions, simple processes and procedures and cause and effect relationships.	Analyze information from a visual cue or a graphic organizer to show complex processes, procedures, comparisons, contrasts, and cause and effect relationships.	Analyze and synthesize information from a visual cue or a graphic organizer to summarize, highlighting the key areas and main trends.
BM 4	Locate information for specific purposes using various aids and study skills.	Gather and use information for a variety of purposes using various aids and study skills.	Gather, analyze, and use information for a variety of purposes using various aids and study skills.	Gather, analyze, evaluate and synthesize information to use for a variety of purposes including a research project using various aids and study skills.	Gather, analyze, evaluate and synthesize information to use for variety of purposes including a research project using various aids and study skills.

Competency 1: Reading and Thinking Skills (C1)

Standard 2: All students will read and analyze literary text to seek information, ideas, enjoyment; and to relate their own experiences to those of common humanity as depicted in literature. (C1, S2)

Benchmarks

	Grades I - II	Grades III - V	Grades VI - VII	Grades IX - X	Grades XI-XII
BM 1	Recall stories and nursery rhymes; express personal reactions to characters and events in them.	Describe basic elements of stories and simple poems; express personal preferences giving reasons.	Analyze short stories and poems; identify with characters' emotional response, motives and actions.	Analyze short stories, poems, and essays; make connections between literary texts and their own lives.	Analyze and evaluate short stories, poems, essays and one- act plays; relate how texts affect their lives and connect the texts to contemporary and historical ideas /issues across cultures.

Competency 2: Writing Skills (C2)

Standard 1: All students will produce with developing fluency and accuracy, academic, transactional and creative writing, which is focused, purposeful and shows an insight into the writing process (C2, S1)

Please note: Reading and writing are integrally related. Good readers are also better writers. In the light of this, identifying and analyzing elements of written texts, focused earlier in reading standards and benchmarks, are sometimes repeated in this section to show this essential relationship for teaching and testing of writing.

Benchmarks

	Grades I - II	Grades III - V	Grades VI - VII	Grades IX - X	Grades XI-XII
BM 1	Write words and sentences using writing techniques.	Identify and use techniques for writing effective and unified sentences and a paragraph.	Analyze written discourse to use in their own compositions, techniques for effective paragraph organization and development such as a clear topic sentence and supporting details.	Analyze a variety of written discourse to use in their own compositions, techniques for effective text organization, development, and author's techniques that influence reader.	Analyze and evaluate a variety of written discourse to use in their own compositions, techniques for effective text organization, development, and author's techniques that influence reader.

BM 2 Write sentences, answers to simple questions and guided stories about familiar topics.	Write short descriptive, expository and narrative paragraphs and stories for academic and creative purposes.	Write descriptive, expository and narrative texts for different purposes and audiences. Write a variety of interpersonal and transactional texts e.g. informal and formal letters, notes, informal invitations and letters, and dialogues (speech bubbles, cartoon strips, role play) using vocabulary, tone, style of expression appropriate to the communicative purpose and context. Write a variety of interpersonal and transactional texts e.g. informal and formal letters, simple forms, dialogues (speech bubbles, cartoon strips) using vocabulary, tone, style of expression appropriate to the communicative purpose and context. Write a variety of interpersonal and transactional texts e.g. formal letters, letters to the editors, applications, emails, and various forms used in extended social environment using vocabulary, tone, style of expression, conventions appropriate to the communicative purpose and context.

BM 4		Plan, draft, revise edit their own texts in areas such as cohesion and coherence, effectiveness of arguments / opinions, sufficient supporting details, creativity, appropriate punctuation and vocabulary.

Competency 3: Oral Communication Skills (C3)

Standard 1: All students will use appropriate social and academic conventions of spoken discourse for effective oral communication with individuals and in groups, in both informal and formal settings. (C3, S1)

Please note: It is acknowledged that presently all schools might not have the requisite resources and testing conditions appropriate for formal testing of oral communication skills. However, realizing the importance of these skills, these have been included explicitly in the curriculum. This will serve two purposes: 1) It will encourage the teachers to undertake the teaching and formative assessment of these skills at the classroom level; 2) Help schools in developing the required resources for formal testing of oral communication skills.

Benchmarks

	Grades I - II	Grades III - V	Grades VI – VII	Grades IX - X	Grades XI-XII
BM 1	Use some formal expressions for basic routine greetings and social courtesies for oral interaction in predictable environment of class and school.	Use limited linguistic exponents to communicate appropriately for functions and co-functions of opinions, apologies, requests and instructions in predictable environment of class and school.	Use selected linguistic exponents to communicate appropriately for various functions and co-functions of advice, hopes, fears, queries, emotions, instructions in immediate social environment.	Use extended linguistic exponents to communicate appropriately for various functions and co-functions of inquiries, persuasions, arguments, comparisons, evaluations, in a wide range of contexts .	Use a variety of linguistic exponents to communicate appropriately for various functions and co-functions of inquiries, persuasions, arguments, comparisons, evaluations, in a wide range of contexts .
BM 2	Demonstrate through introductions, recitation of poems, and show-and-tell activities, the social and academic conventions and dynamics to communicate information/ ideas.	Demonstrate through role plays , discussions, conversations, the social and academic conventions and dynamics to communicate information/ ideas.	Demonstrate through dialogues, panel discussions , talks on particular topics, the social and academic conventions and dynamics to communicate information/ ideas.	Demonstrate through formal talks, group oral presentations, informal interviews, the social and academic conventions and dynamics to communicate information/ ideas.	Demonstrate through formal talks, individual oral presentations and job interviews, the social and academic conventions and dynamics to communicate information/ ideas.

Competency 4: Formal and Lexical Aspects of Language. (C4)
Standard 1, Pronunciation: All students will understand and articulate widely acceptable pronunciation, stress and intonation patterns of the English language for improved communication. (C4, S1)

Benchmarks

	Grades I - II	Grades III - V	Grades VI - VII	Grades IX - X	Grades XI-XII
BM 1	Recognize and articulate the basic sounds and sound patterns of English language at word and sentence level.	Recognize and articulate sound patterns and stress in words; and basic intonation patterns in statements and questions as they occur in classroom texts.	Pronounce (acceptably) words, identify and apply stress shift and intonation patterns for communicating different meanings.	Pronounce (acceptably) new words, and use appropriate stress and intonation pattern in sustained speech to communicate effectively.	Pronounce (acceptably) new lexical items , and use appropriate stress and intonation pattern in sustained speech to communicate effectively.

Competency 4: Formal and Lexical Aspects of Language (C4)
Standard 2, Vocabulary: All students will enhance vocabulary for effective communication. (C4, S2)

Benchmarks

	Grades I - II	Grades III - V	Grades VI - VIII	Grades IX - X	Grades XI-XII
BM 1	Recognize and use with correct spellings naming, action and describing words, cognates , rhymes, common phrases and formulaic expressions from immediate surroundings and from the subject texts.	Build vocabulary through simple affixes , compound words , converting parts of speech, classify words into different categories; and use with correct spellings, the vocabulary from the subject texts and extended media.	Build vocabulary through roots , contextual clues , dictionary, thesaurus, and the environment; use words, phrases and idioms in context and with correct spellings.	Analyze different kind of texts to identify how lexical items are used to convey different meanings; use lexical items in context and with correct spellings; use lexical items to show different meanings in their own speech and writing.	Evaluate different kind of texts to understand how lexical items change meaning and style ; use lexical items to show finer shades of meaning and style in their own speech and writing.

Competency 4: Formal and Lexical Aspects of Language (C4)
Standard 3, Grammar and structure: All students will understand grammatical functions and use the principles of grammar, punctuation, and syntax for developing accuracy in their spoken and written communication (C4, S3)

Benchmarks

	Grades I - II	Grades III - V	Grades VI - VIII	Grades IX - X	Grades XI-XII
BM 1	Recognize grammatical functions of some parts of speech and use them in their speech and writing.	Recognize grammatical functions of selected parts of speech, limited concepts of time, tense and aspect, and use them in their speech and writing.	Recognize grammatical functions of parts of speech, selected concepts of tense, aspect, limited transitional devices and modal verbs , and use them in their speech and writing.	Recognize grammatical functions and concepts of tense and aspect, selected transitional devices and modal verbs , and use them in their speech and writing.	Apply grammatical functions and concepts of tense and aspect, transitional devices and modal verbs in their speech and writing.
BM 2	Recognize and use punctuation such as, full stop, question mark, exclamation mark and capitalization to read and write simple sentences.	Recognize and use punctuation including the use of hyphen, comma and colon to read and write lists and simple paragraphs	Recognize and use punctuation including use of semicolons, dash, parenthesis and quotation marks to denote direct speech.	Recognize and use punctuation including use of commas in phrases, complex clauses and sentences	Recognize and use punctuation to evaluate complex texts for style and changes in meaning and to use in writing of bibliographies and reference lists
BM 3	Use and respond to simple commands and questions verbally and non-verbally .	Recognize and use simple sentence structure and appropriate sentence types to write meaningful paragraphs.	Identify sentence types and structure, recognize and apply the concept and functions of voice and narration in reading and writing.	Analyze sentence types and structure, recognize and apply the concept and function of coordination and subordination in extended writing tasks.	Analyze sentence types and structure, recognize and apply the concept and function of coordination and subordination in extended writing tasks for increased effectiveness in communication.

Competency 5: Appropriate Ethical and Social Development (C5)
Standard 1: All students will develop ethical and social attributes and values relevant in a multicultural, civilized society.
(C5, S1)

Please note: This competency will be developed and incorporated across the other four competencies; hence, the teaching and learning of the appropriate values and attributes is to be embedded in the chosen themes and topics of the reading texts, and through writing and speaking activities performed in the learning environment of the class.

	Grades I - II	Grades III - V	Grades VI - VIII	Grades IX - X	Grades XI-XII
BM 1	Recognize and practice values and attributes such as tolerance, humanism, patience, equity, justice, honesty, empathy, etc., relevant for peaceful coexistence between individuals, groups and nations.
BM 2		Develop and portray through actions, a sense of importance of individual worth, simultaneously valuing diversity and equality among people.
BM 3			Understand and evaluate contemporary social, economic and scientific developments/ issues so as to participate in the global society as aware and thinking individuals.

Please note: This competency will be developed and incorporated across the other four competencies; hence, the teaching and learning of the appropriate values and attributes is to be embedded in the chosen themes and topics of the reading texts, and through writing and speaking activities performed in the learning environment of the class.

Benchmark I: Recognize and practise values and attributes such as tolerance, humanism, patience, equity, justice, honesty, empathy, etc., relevant for peaceful coexistence between individuals, groups and nations.

Benchmark II: Develop and portray through actions, a sense of importance of individual worth; simultaneously valuing diversity and equality among people.

Benchmark III: Understand and evaluate contemporary social, economic and scientific developments/ issues so as to participate in the global society as aware and thinking individuals.

Section 4: Text Types / Themes and Sub-Themes

Texts are written to communicate information, ideas, feelings etc; therefore, they are shaped by the purpose of writing, the context of communication, and the reader. These elements are interdependent so that, for example, the form of writing in a particular text type is adapted to the writer's aim and the intended reader.

It is essential that the students are exposed to a variety of writing, its readership and variations in form and style of expression; only then will students acquire flexible strategies to understand various texts, and to display their understanding by producing well written texts for various purposes and audiences.

This section gives various text types; their examples, the range of purposes or intentions and the focus of writing of each text type.

Suggested themes and sub-themes are also listed to enable teachers and materials writers to build text content. Context should be so designed so as to build a wide range of reading experiences that have literary, informational, persuasive, analytical, and practical purposes.

4.1 Text Types

Text Type	Examples
Narrative/expressive/reflective texts (Literary texts) Intention: To entertain, explore, imagine, enlighten, share experiences so as to get the reader involved in story and characters. Focus: Literary, creative and aesthetic appeal.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">○ Stories○ Poems (lyrics, ballads, sonnets)○ Play scripts○ Biographies○ Anecdotes○ Diary, journal entries○ Fantasy, adventure, science, fiction
Persuasive/ argumentative texts Intention: To persuade, argue, advise. Focus: Influence the readers or viewers to change their mind about something.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">○ Brochures○ Advertisement of consumer products○ Letters to the editor conveying opinions○ Editorials○ Campaign literature○ Magazine articles supporting a position
Expository(factual/ Informative texts) Intention: To inform, explain and describe print and computer-based informative and reference texts. Focus: Document, organize and convey information and ideas.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">○ News reports○ Magazine articles○ Memos○ Menus, blurbs○ Indices, forms○ Maps○ Recipes○ Minutes

Focus: Present weighed and evaluative views of ideas and issues.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <input type="radio"/> Commentaries <input type="radio"/> Analytical articles <input type="radio"/> Essays and reports <input type="radio"/> Reviews
Texts used for Interpersonal / Transactional Communication Intention: To communicate a message for transactional or interpersonal purpose. Focus: To communicate and share ideas, feelings and information.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <input type="radio"/> Dialogues (informal/ formal) <input type="radio"/> Letters (informal/ formal) <input type="radio"/> Greeting cards <input type="radio"/> E mails <input type="radio"/> Notices <input type="radio"/> Talks <input type="radio"/> Interviews <input type="radio"/> Job advertisements <input type="radio"/> Resumes'

4.2 Themes and Sub-Themes

The following themes along with their sub-themes are suggested for selection of topics and content of teaching material. These themes should primarily nurture ethical and social attitudes relevant to Pakistani context, and also create an awareness, tolerance and understanding of global audiences. The chosen material should demonstrate gender and cultural neutrality, and should not contain any hate material.

Material on the recommended themes should be used to teach various language skills. There is no direct relation between a thematic topic and a particular skill. Any topic can be exploited for teaching any number of skills, and at a higher grade should incorporate wider content areas and higher vocabulary range justifying the spiral approach of the curriculum.

Some of the listed themes lend themselves better to teaching basic transactional skills by providing an immediate communicative purpose and are, therefore, more suitable for conversational and functional texts. Several themes can also be combined in one unit e.g. Nature and Environmental Education can be dealt with through range of text types and activities on Environmental Pollution in one unit.

An indicative list of themes is given on the following pages.

Please note: This list is not exhaustive. Textbook writers can select from the given themes and/or add related sub-themes to suit the developmental level of the students.

Section 5: Classroom Methodology

5.1 Essentials of classroom methodology

Below are given some essentials relating to the general classroom methodology regarding English language teaching. These essentials would not only be beneficial to the teachers, but also to the text book writer while devising material.

- Language learning will be effective if teacher does less of the talking in class and puts the learners in a communicative situation where they are provided with a purpose to speak, read, write or listen.
- In early years of schooling or primary grades, the natural sequence of observing, listening and then speaking should be followed; once the child has developed considerable facility in using oral English, he or she should be encouraged to express ideas in writing.
- At higher grades, emphasis should be shifted to reading and writing. It is, however, important to realize the need of integrated language teaching; if the focus of a lesson is on reading or writing, the oral/aural skills should not at all be neglected.
- Activities should be so devised and conducted that students have an opportunity for individual work, as well as, pair work and group work.
- Peer corrections should be encouraged; this is especially a good tool in large classes.
- Mistakes and errors should be taken as a learning opportunity. Teachers should not be over critical, and should facilitate students to communicate and learn through activities and tasks which are enjoyable and intellectually stimulating.

Teachers should first find out the number of hours they can spend on each unit and the core SLOs of a unit. Then add materials that will enhance the objectives and fit into the given time e.g. If the teacher feels the text book's reading passage lacks relevant activities, he/she can develop other activities for vocabulary enhancement, discussion and comprehension questions and other reading activities that will develop the theme/main points of the reading and/or give the required language practice.

The teacher should have an overview of what each week's lessons will look like

- based on the language skills, text material/topic
- variety of activities and methodology to be used
- teacher's supplemental materials
- quizzes or tests to check student progress of the given SLOs.

5.2 Teaching of Language skills

It should be understood that the language skills of listening, speaking reading and writing are taught separately or are integrated according to need and purpose. Although taught through their sub skills, these skills are holistic acts that have emerging, beginning, developing, effective and advanced stages. All forms of communication serve as vehicles for language learning, as well as, means for exploring ideas about life and human nature.

It is important to develop students' oral skills of listening and speaking throughout. Verbal and non-verbal effectiveness in both speech and response, should focus on appropriate and effective use of language, and on development of ideas and their organization for a specific audience, setting, and occasion. Teaching oral presentations from early years of schooling, whether a simple ‘show and tell’, a recital, a story, a speech or a report, are excellent ways to develop listening and speaking skills.

Reading is the first visual process that needs to be connected to an oral and aural experience. Reading instructions must take into consideration the general academic developmental needs of students, as well as, their individual abilities. Focus on conventions, comprehension, interpretation and context is integral. Textual aids such as blurbs footnotes, graphs, figures, table of contents, indexes, appendices, preface etc. aid comprehension.

Reading is done in different ways for different purposes e.g. we read an instructional manual, a humorous magazine, a course text and a diagram in different ways and for different purposes.

Reading aloud for pronunciation development, stress and intonation is different from reading for comprehension which is an individual, silent activity. Silent reading must be modeled by the teacher and class time must be provided for students to engage in sustained silent reading.

A teacher must explicitly model the critical reading and thinking through guided reading instruction and independent reading time. Open-ended activities and questions during guided reading encourage diverse responses, and critical and creative thinking. Meaningful and supportive intervention, which makes students feel that they are being helped through their problems in reading, is important.

It is the teacher’s responsibility to encourage students to experience the joy and satisfaction of fiction (literature), and devise ways to extend students’ interest in it. This will also help develop higher order skills of prediction, evaluation, judgment etc. The natural setting of a book will provide the native use of forms and vocabulary which will help develop language skills.

Teachers and material writers can structure the reading comprehension lessons using different kinds of questions related to Literal comprehension, Reorganization, Inferential comprehension, Evaluative comprehension, Comparison and Appreciation.

Writing abilities are mainly acquired by practice and frequent writing. Writing is a complex process interwoven with thinking as it allows writers to explore thoughts and ideas, and make them visible and concrete. The ultimate aim of teaching writing through school years should be to make students fully independent writers. It is important for the teacher to realize that it is not only the final product that is important in teaching writing, but also the process in which learners and teachers collaborate for the benefit, advantage and encouragement of the learners.

Students’ ability to write stories and nonfiction narratives is derived substantially from the models of these types of writing through their experiences of such texts (heard or read). It is important to understand that models, in this sense are not blue prints for close imitation. They are simply examples from which a child develops generalized rules about the nature, structure and content of stories; the models that are provided and discussed will over a period of time be internalized.

Students should be gradually introduced to the practice of editing and proof reading their own work. Initially, this should be done in collaboration with teachers; as a next stage, pairs of children might help each other.

For indicating errors, teachers should introduce a set of conventions to be followed by all. Text book writers can give such a checklist as an appendix to text books so that there is an accepted checklist of proofreading conventions.

5.3 Instructional strategies

A range of instructional strategies should be used to create learning environments and achieve learning objectives which cater to the differing interests, abilities and learning styles of students in order to make them independent and confident learners. These are:

- a) Input: Input about different aspects of language such as grammar can be interspersed with tasks and activities to develop students' ability to use language skills in real-life situations. This can be made interesting and effective by identifying its purpose, by posing questions to check conceptual understanding, and by inviting students' questions for clarification.
- b) Discussion: A unique form of group interaction that helps students develop their listening and speaking skills through exploring a diversity of views and investigating assumptions in the light of different perspectives. Discussion can also be helpful in developing reading and writing skills such as enhancing comprehension of complex ideas in reading texts and generating ideas for writing argumentative essays.
- c) Role-Play: A teaching strategy in which students learn by acting and observing. It helps to develop language and social skills through problem-solving and communication. Role plays can be used beneficially at the post-reading stage for elaborating ideas gained from reading texts and for practice of dialogue writing.
- d) Inquiry/Investigation: A process of framing questions, gathering information about language structure and use, analyzing texts and drawing conclusions about author's purpose etc. It encourages students to actively engage with texts and take responsibility for their learning.
- e) Cooperative Learning: Students group together in small groups to maximize their own and each other's language learning through student-student interaction. It helps them to use language spontaneously in a 'natural' setting, as well as, read and write texts collaboratively. It also helps develop students' social skills and increases their higher order thinking.
- f) Projects: In project work, students develop all the four language skills while learning to work independently of the teacher. It also allows for creativity and development of research skills.
- g) Presentations: Oral presentation on group and individual tasks and projects help shift the focus from teacher talk to the learners' active participation in classroom discourse. This also helps develop confidence and enhances listening and speaking skills.

5.4 Supplementary materials

Along with the printed materials i.e. prescribed textbooks and teachers' guides, teachers are encouraged to use the following:

1. Encyclopedias, source books, newspapers, journals, magazines etc.
2. Auditory materials such as radio broadcasts and tape recordings.
3. Visual materials such as cue cards, cutouts, pictures, maps, charts, posters, overhead projectors, television, computers (audio-visual), etc.
4. Environment, community and the outdoor.

Section 6: Assessment

The focus of the curriculum is to prepare students for an assessment of their acquisition and use of language skills rather than memorization of the text book contents. Discouraging rote learning will enable students to approach different texts independently. Skill-based assessment using unseen texts and materials is, therefore, recommended for testing students' ability to use language in spoken and written communication.

6.1 Assessment forms

The two forms of assessment recommended are

6.1.1. Periodic/ Formative Assessment: It is an ongoing process throughout the academic session, and is generally done through homework, quizzes, class tests and group discussions. Periodic assessment tests encourage most students to do more revision work. It helps the teacher to assess students' performance and learning in relation to course objectives, and also to improve his/her own teaching accordingly. The teacher must provide feedback to the students on a regular basis.

6.1.2 End- of- term / Summative Assessment: It is the traditional end-of-term or final examination. It involves the whole course and determines promotion of the most suitable candidates to a higher class, course or university. Conducting only end-of –term assessments is of little benefit; it helps neither the students, who have not been trained to take examinations, nor the teachers who remains unaware about success/failure of their methodology and the course content. The same variety of assessment tools should be used for both types of assessments.

6.2 Characteristics of a good test

A good test has the following characteristics:

Validity: It tests what it is supposed to test. The test items should be closely related to curriculum objectives to ensure content validity.

Reliability: This is of two kinds: inter-rater reliability and test-retest reliability. If the test is reliable, the students will get similar grades if they take the test on another occasion without any additional language training. Reliability can be achieved through providing the assessors with clear and easy to use marking schemes, as well as, their training, wherever possible, in using these marking schemes.

Practicality: A good test is easy to administer. An effort should be made, particularly in large-scale testing, to ensure that testing conditions are uniform across a range of contexts in which the test is administered. Also, the testing conditions should be similar to the conditions under which standardization and norming has taken place during the test development stage.

Testing is closely related to teaching. A good test can have a beneficial backwash effect in terms of focusing the teaching on curriculum objectives (SLOs).

The assessment system for the present curriculum should include

- A clear statement of the specific purpose(s) for which the assessment is being carried out.
- A wide variety of assessment tools and techniques that measure students' ability to use language effectively for different purposes.
- Criteria to be used for determining performance levels for the SLOs for each grade level.
- Procedures for interpretation and use of assessment results to evaluate the learning outcomes.

6.3 Purposes of Assessment

Primary purpose of all assessment, periodic (formative) or end -of -term (summative), is improving the teaching-learning and assessing by providing feedback to both teachers and students.

More specifically, assessment helps the teachers to

- Check the knowledge the students already have so that teachers know from where to start teaching.
- Find out students' strengths and weaknesses.
- Explore the cause of students' weaknesses and address them through improved teaching methodology and/or materials.
- Find out if feedback to students is helpful and effective.
- Compare the ability of students of one school with the ability of students of a similar grade in other schools.

6.4 Methods of Assessment

Students' abilities and acquired skills can be tested through a range of assessment methods, and the process of selecting the most appropriate one must consider the purpose of a particular assessment, time and resources available, and age and developmental level of the students. A fully planned and balanced test can include any combination of objective and subjective methods. A brief description and merits and demerits of some commonly used assessment methods and their tools are given below.

6.4.1 Selected Response (Objective type):

Students select the answer to a question from two or more given choices. Their short response time allows more information to be assessed in a short time. Scoring is quick and objective, since teachers need only check if the single correct or best answer was identified for each item.

Assessment tools: Multiple Choice Items, Binary Choice Items, Matching Items, Interpretive Exercises.

Multiple choice items

The different types of multiple choice items are

- Correct answer type: It assesses knowledge and comprehension.
- Best answer type: This measures higher order thinking such as reasoning and critical analysis.
- Multiple response type: It assesses knowledge, comprehension and critical thinking. This is used in dealing with questions to which more than one clearly correct answer exists.
- Incomplete statement: This measures knowledge, skills and higher order thinking. The stem is an incomplete statement rather than a question.

If we analyze tests in which multiple choice items are used, we find that in most cases, the items test 'knowledge' only. Multiple choice items must test application or analysis along with knowledge and comprehension. However, it is recommended that only correct answer type and best answer type multiple choice items should be used.

Binary Choice Items

These items, such as marking statements as True or False can be used to assess knowledge, values and opinions depending on which binary choices are given. Guessing allows students a 50% chance of being right. These need to be avoided at higher grades.

Matching Items

These effectively assess students' knowledge and associations/relationships of one or more concepts or linguistic items, and can assess a great amount of factual information within a single topic.

Interpretive Exercises

Interpretive exercises contain brief information or data, followed by a variety of questions. The questions are based on the information or data, which can take the form of maps, paragraphs, charts, figures, a story, tables or pictures. Multiple questions about the same information allow higher cognitive skills and their application to be measured in greater depth.

Interpretive exercises:

- Can assess interpretation, analysis, application, critical thinking, and other reasoning skills separately from content knowledge of the subject.
- Allow students to focus on applying and connecting knowledge.
- Use information in formats that students encounter daily such as pictures, maps, charts, figures, tables and newspaper articles, which increase meaning and relevance of the exercise.
- Help test the development of reading ability.

6.4.2 Constructed Response (Semi-objective and Subjective type)

This requires students to create or produce their own answer in response to a question or task. This allows teachers to gain insight into students' thinking and creative processes, and to assess higher order thinking along with their ability to use language in oral or written communication. However, such items are time-consuming to answer and score. Although they eliminate guesswork, scoring is more subjective and thus clear criteria are necessary to maintain reliability.

a) Brief constructed response items (Semi-objective): These require students to provide a very short, clearly delineated answer. They are objectively scored because there is typically a single correct answer that is easily identified.

Assessment tools: Fill-in items, short answers

Fill-in Items

Fill-in items assess more knowledge and factual information in less time. These ask students to label diagrams or write a one word answer to a short question. These cannot check understanding or higher order thinking.

Short Answers

Short-answer items are questions that call for students to write short answers (3-4 sentences at most). They assess knowledge, understanding and reasoning. It is important to decide what knowledge, ideas and skills are to be tested and then allocate marks accordingly. Short answers may test more than recognition and recall, and they demand a certain amount of coherence in the answer. They are more objectively scored than an essay and provide less opportunity for guessing.

b) Constructed response: Restricted response, extended response (Subjective)

Assessment tools: Essay-type questions

Essay-type questions

These may have students construct restricted-responses that limit the length, content and nature of the answer; or extended-responses that allow greater freedom in response. These essay-type questions are easier to construct, provided appropriate command words are used, than objective and semi-objective type questions but require a lot of time and skill in marking. Clear criteria need to be developed to ensure consistency of marking by different assessors.

c) Performance tasks: These require students to construct a more extensive response to a well-defined task, often involving deep understanding and/ or higher order thinking skills needed in real-world application. Performance tasks can be used to evaluate both processes, such as dramatic reading, and their resultant products, for example a play. Another example is project work that can evaluate a range of skills such as research skills, analysis and synthesis of information, presentation skills etc.

6.4.3 Teacher observation

Informal teacher observation is so common that it is often ignored as a form of assessment. However, teachers constantly observe and listen to students as they work. Non-verbal communication, such as inattention, looks of frustration, and other cues, gives greater insight than verbal feedback. However, formal observation is important in assessing both products and skills in performance tasks such as oral presentations and interviewing skills. Planned observation focuses on specific behavior(s). It can be done by the teacher as a spectator or as a participant. Observational tools include a listing of pre-selected behaviors/skills. After observing, the teacher checks off whether each item listed was shown or not shown. Pre-determined assessment criteria should be worked out.

6.4.4 Student assessment

a) Self-assessment: In self-evaluation of academic achievement, students rate their own performance in relation to established standards and criteria. As part of their self-reporting, students may also be asked to answer questions that reveal their attitudes and beliefs about themselves or other students.

b) Peer assessment: This develops collaborative learning with students helping their peers through providing feedback on their work. Often some prior training of students is required in using the marking criteria for peer assessment to be of maximum benefit to the students. This is a very useful technique in large classes where the teacher cannot mark the work of each student in the class.

6.5 Constructing a test

The way teachers test affects the way students learn. Tests should be written well in advance of an assessment. Also, care should be taken to ensure that the test adequately includes the whole area of understanding and abilities in relation to the curriculum objectives. A teacher should have a bank of questions previously written or write parallel items. A question has to be clearly written so that students know exactly what response is required. An examination question, clearly worded using the appropriate command words defines the student's task exactly.

6.5.1 Steps in constructing a test

The steps outlined below will help in writing better tests:

- Decide the purpose of the test.
- State the objectives of the test.
- Produce a 'grid' or a table of test specifications clearly identifying what is to be tested in relation to the syllabus objectives.
- Decide on type of questions to be used.
- Write the test items making sure that the items test what they are supposed to test (Validity).
- Devise a marking scheme which is easy to understand and use.
- Do an item analysis to find out the validity and reliability of the test.

6.6 Marking various test items

It is important to understand the nature of the various test items and the criteria by which they are marked. A marking scheme must be made and consulted while marking the scripts; otherwise, the results will be unreliable.

It has often been noticed that assessors use their own criteria for marking exam papers at secondary and higher secondary level. While it is acknowledged that all assessors have wide experience of teaching and assessment, training of assessors in large-scale testing is recommended to reduce subjectivity and ensure reliability of scoring of student scripts.

6.6.1 Marking selected response items (Objective type)

Objective items are either right or wrong, so there is no difficulty in marking them. Spelling, knowledge of grammar and sentence construction can all be tested using objective type items.

6.6.2 Marking constructed response items (Semi-objective, Subjective type items)

a) Marking brief constructed response items (semi-objective items)

Semi-objective items are easier to mark than the essay type as we can break the task up into two or three smaller portions and allocate marks for each section; thus marks are distributed according to the importance of a particular step.

b) Marking constructed response items (essay type items)

The most difficult items to mark are essay type items as markers vary in their opinion over the marks a particular student deserves for his/her essay type answer. Essay type items may be used to test creativity, opinion or interest etc., in addition to other writing skills. These item types should not be used to test those objectives which can be tested more reliably by other means e.g. marking spelling mistakes at the cost of ignoring creative use of language that has a variety of vocabulary.

Making Scoring Rubrics (a checklist with criteria and points)

Carefully planned marking schemes and focused rubrics guide essay marking and help in reducing subjectivity and ensure accurate professional judgment. The rubric should preferably be shared with the students before they begin the task. Scoring rubrics consist of performance criteria and a way to rate them.

Table 6.1: Sample rubric for marking essays at grade X level

Content: Convincing, pertinent, specific, perceptive	5	2.5
Point of View: Clear, consistent, appropriate in approach	3	1.5
Essay Organization: Logical, coherent, unified, suitable to purpose, orderly development to an effect or conclusion	5	2.5
Language use and style: Sentence Structure: Skilful use of a variety of sentence patterns (such as contrast, balance, repetition, and exclamation). Diction: Vocabulary appropriate for grade level, vivid, precise. Style: Interesting, original, expression suited to content, flow	5	2.5
Mechanics: Correctness in punctuation, spelling, and grammar	2	1
TOTAL	20	10

Note: Rubrics for other grades can be made using or improvising this sample.

c) Marking Performance tasks

Observation, peer and self assessment are particularly useful in assessing performance tasks. Rubrics such as the following can be worked out for various performance tasks.

Table 6.2: Sample rubric for assessment of students' oral presentations

Performance Criteria

Put a (✓) in the column when students demonstrate the skills	Student name/roll no.	Student name/roll no	Student name/roll no
1. Introduction was short, clear and interesting
2. Topic was clearly explained
3. Used relevant information
4. Used facts and examples to support claims
5. Spoke clearly and distinctly
6. Was confident throughout the presentation
7. Maintained eye contact with the audience
8. Used visual aids(charts, OHP, slides) effectively
9. Handled questions and comments properly

Note: this can be adapted as
• "Agree/Disagree/Don't Know" for peer evaluation.
• Description and marks for criteria 1-9 for analytic marking

By using a set of clearly defined criteria and the standards for rating performance on them, the outcome of an assessment may be a list of marks. However, using the performance criteria, it would be easy to explain the ability of each candidate being examined in relation to the particular benchmarks and SLOs in the curriculum document.

6.6.3 Assessing language skills

Competencies, Standards and Benchmarks in the curriculum document should serve as the basis for teaching and assessment. The aim of assessment, as stated earlier, is to find out students' progress through ongoing formative assessment in class, using teacher-made tests, and their overall achievements of the benchmarks for each developmental level through end-of-year final examinations or summative assessment.

6.6.4 Assessing affective traits, ethical and social values

These include attitudes, values, motivation, social relationships, classroom environment, and concept of one's own academic ability. Positive, well-developed affective traits motivate students to learn effectively now and in the long-term. Students have a better self-concept, higher productivity and become more involved citizens of their society. In addition, they learn to analyze themselves and refine behaviors and disposition.

6.7 Recommendations

English language will be examined through a board examination, at the end of grades X and XII.

- There will be two papers, Paper A/1 and Paper B/2.
- Paper A/1 to consist of reading comprehension and critical thinking.
- Paper B/2 to consist of writing skills, grammar and sentence structure.
- Each paper to have objective and subjective sections.
- It is recommended that 60% marks should be allocated to knowledge and understanding: 40% marks should be allocated to application.

Table 6.3: Recommended allocation of marks in relation to standards, benchmarks and SLOs for Grades IX-X

* The development of these skills in C3S1 and C4S1 will be tested on an ongoing basis over a period of two years of study through Formative Assessment and will, therefore, not be tested in the final examinations till such time conditions are available for testing of these skills.

CA = Classroom Activity.

FA = Formative Assessment.

Note: It has been clearly stated in the curriculum and guidelines for textbook writers that not more than 25% of the texts will be of a literary nature to encourage focus on using English as a tool for academic purposes and real-life communication.

Section 7: Guidelines for Selection and Development of Textbook / Materials Writing

7.1 Purpose of the guidelines

A textbook remains one of the most extensively used resources in Pakistani classrooms as learning materials are not easily available in some teaching-learning contexts. It is, therefore, important to improve both the quality of content and presentation to support the successful implementation of the present curriculum.

The main purpose of these guidelines is

- a) To provide sufficient knowledge of the basic steps involved in designing innovative learning materials.
- b) To help develop an insight into writing relevant and contextually appropriate textbooks and developing teachers' guides, keeping in mind the learning objectives, the assessment procedures specified in the present curriculum document.

These guidelines will also be helpful to teachers and reviewers in assessing the educational value of different teaching materials.

7.2 Process of textbook development

Writing a good textbook requires an insight into the teaching / learning situation, the specific learning objectives at a particular developmental level, and the tools for formative and summative evaluation. Moreover, sustained practice is required to plan and develop textbooks that provide sufficient and appropriate input to students.

Criteria, therefore, needs to be set not only for the production of quality material design and development, but also for the textbook writers. The textbook writers must

- a) be able to develop a variety of well-structured, skills-balanced material that caters for a complete developmental level and not for a single grade;
- b) have the requisite background, experience and expertise in English language teaching and materials writing; a bio-data of the authors' background, experience, and expertise should be provided at the end of the textbook.

It is to be noted that textbook will not be the only resource used for assessment. In fact, a textbook will be a contributing resource for acquisition of the SLOs given in this document. For a language curriculum, most of the material chosen should be contemporary and reflect the specified themes. The reading texts as specified earlier, will comprise a variety of text types interpersonal and transactional, expository, descriptive and narrative with literary texts comprising 25% of the reading material.

Although it is not desirable to have rigid rules for textbook development, it is necessary that textbook writers develop a common framework to serve as a reference point. This can be done through the stages described below:

7.2.1 Stages of Textbook development

Textbook development involves at least five stages:

1. Planning
2. Materials writing
3. Editing
4. Review
5. Piloting testing and Revision

Planning

Planning is necessary for writing quality materials. Therefore, maximum time should be spent on the planning stage.

In the planning stage

- Consider the number of periods (class hours) in an academic year allocated to the teaching of English Language.
- Read carefully the curriculum document to familiarize yourself with the competencies and standards for development of English language skills during 12 years of schooling.
- Review the benchmarks for the specific developmental stage for which the textbooks are to be written.
- Review SLOs and learning outcomes for each grade level within the given developmental stage.
- Identify learning outcomes for each unit of the textbook.
- Select topics from the given themes / sub-themes in relation to the age level and interests of the students.
- Avoid an overload of topics; instead add more activities as these are a better way of realizing the targets of the SLOs.
- Decide on the key ideas, skills, sub-skills, grammar points, etc to be included in each unit.
- Decide the weighting to be given to different skills within each unit.
- Organize the key ideas, skills, sub-skills, grammar points, vocabulary items etc.
- Decide kind of activities appropriate for text type, age level and SLOs.
- Plan on a detailed page of contents.

Materials writing

In the material writing stage

- Select a range of authentic reading texts in a variety of styles. If required, adapt these texts to match the age and grade level of the students. Give complete reference details for the selected texts.
- Write the texts, where necessary, to match the age and grade level of the students.
- Develop activities on selected skills, sub-skills, vocabulary, grammar, etc. Make sure the activities a) are in line with the SLOs for a particular grade; b) provide sufficient independent and integrated language practice of listening, speaking, reading and writing.
- Include sufficient review exercises.
- Write a summary of the knowledge and skills focused on in the unit, and grammar and spelling rules (if any) at end of each unit.
- Provide a progress test after two or three units to assess the SLOs focused upon in these units.
- Decide which illustrations are to be used, and prepare an art brief with instructions for the illustrator and designer.

Editing

In the Editing stage, ensure

- Clarity of instructions, illustrations, captions etc.
- Format of each unit (level headings).
- Mechanics such as grammar and spelling.

Peer Review: Self Review and Peer Review

This stage is necessary to ensure

- Accuracy and authenticity of facts.
- Relevance to SLOs.
- Appropriateness to Pakistani teaching / learning environment.
- Variety and appropriateness of activities.
- Sufficient review activities / exercises.

Pilot testing and revision

In this stage

- Give the materials to selected teachers for trialing in their classrooms.
- Revise the materials according to feedback received from the teachers.

7.3 Process of teachers' guide development

Teachers' guide serves to educate teachers and thus, could be seen as a means of helping teachers develop professionally. Therefore, all textbooks should be accompanied by a teachers' guide aimed at informing teachers as to best use it to facilitate student learning. For example, the teachers' guide should provide detailed explanation of key concepts, ways to teach a particular topic and further examples that could be given to facilitate learning.

7.3.1 Basic functions of teachers' guide

Teachers' guide should be easy to understand and use. It must be based on accompanying textbook skills, knowledge, and strategies for teacher, grouped according to unit, and sequenced to correspond with the text.

Teachers' guide should:

- Expand and develop teacher's repertoire of knowledge and skills.
- Help a teacher teach text, and extend activities by keeping contextual realities in view.
- Provide various teaching strategies and rationale for suggested teaching.
- Familiarize teachers with various assessment strategies.
- Provide additional teaching-learning resources e.g. photocopiable material that teachers can use in their classrooms.
- Contain information sources for teachers' ongoing professional development.
- Provide extended activities and show how to conduct them.

7.3.2 Stages of teachers' guide development

A teachers' guide should have the following components:

- Title
- Introduction
- Overview of SLOs
- Detailed instructions regarding methodology, learning activities, and assessment procedures
- Further reading material.

Planning

- Identify teaching strategies appropriate to context of teaching and learning, according to textbook, and rationale for each strategy.
- Identify which teaching strategies are suitable for teaching knowledge, skills, and dispositions in each unit.
- Identify what extended activities students could do with teacher's help to develop target knowledge, skills and dispositions.

- Identify resources needed for teaching strategies and extension activities.
- Identify sources of information that teachers can use to develop their content and pedagogical knowledge and skills.
- Identify gaps in resources or strategies that will need to be developed or explained.
- Identify assessment strategies that require further explanation for effective use by the teachers.

Writing

- Address the teacher(s).
- In introduction, give general philosophy of the curriculum.
- Give brief overview of structure of the textbook and various units; also include skill focus and main teaching points for each unit.
- State SLOs for each unit.
- Write each unit sequence corresponding to textbook for ease of cross-referencing.
- Identify constraints and strengths of each strategy or activity, especially if these are likely to be new for teachers.
- Explain how to implement each instructional strategy, adding resources or sources of information, as needed.
- Explain each assessment strategy (strengths, weaknesses, procedures for implementation) and give examples of questions, tests.
- Explain how and where teachers can develop low-cost or no-cost resources.
- Decide where illustrations are needed, and prepare brief for illustrator.
- Recommend additional reading material for teachers.

Editing

- Check guide is error-free.
- Check that steps for each strategy / activity are easily understood.

Piloting and revision

- Ask teachers to use the guide for teaching the textbook.
- Revise according to feedback from teachers.

7.4 Checklist for textbook writers, teachers and reviewers

The following questions can help in reviewing the quality of textbooks:

1. Is the textbook material related to the goals of the curriculum?
2. Is a teachers' guide included?
3. Layout
 - a) Is it attractive, appealing and user friendly?
 - b) Is it colorful and affordable?
 - c) Does it have has adequate page size, line spacing, font size, title and sub- titles?
 - d) Does it use consistent format throughout in language, content and activities?
4. Does it have
 - a) an introduction explaining how to use the textbook?
 - b) detailed content page?
 - c) glossary / vocabulary index / appendices?
5. Do the illustrations (maps, pictures, drawings, graphs) help us to understand the content better?
6. Are there suggestions for
 - a) further reading in the area?
 - b) websites for further information?

7. Content

- a) Is the content accurate, authentic and up to date?
- b) Is the content culturally and contextually relevant?
- c) Is the content relevant to the needs, age and level of understanding of the students?
- d) Is the content suitable for the skills it is supposed to develop?
- e) Is the language readable, understandable, and easy to follow? Appropriate for the students who will use it?
- f) Does the content provide sufficient English language exposure and practice through
 - o variety of text types / genres?
 - o variety of spoken and written language forms (both formal and informal)?
- g) Does it include current issues, problems, and happenings?
- h) Does the textbook present issues from different perspectives?
- i) Does it avoid biases? i) religion ii) national origin iii) gender iv) occupation v) class vi) any other.

8. Methodology

- a) Do the activities / exercises encourage students to
 - o think
 - o develop their skills
 - o be creative?
- b) Are activities
 - o suitable for the needs of the learner?
 - o such that they ensure student participation in real life issues?

9. Is a variety of assessment strategies suggested e.g. fill-in-the-blank, binary choice, multiple-choice, short answers (all levels), essay type answers, memorized answers, project work, exhibitions, open-ended and divergent responses, etc.?

10. Do the text, questions and suggested activities stimulate interest that would lead to further study?

11. Review and revision

- 1) Is there a built-in review system?
- 2) Is the review system sufficient to develop an awareness of what is learnt?
- 3) Are the review activities effective to recall and check previous learning?
- 4) Do the review exercises engage students to develop their creativity and engage them in higher order thinking?
- 5) Is the review system adequate to prepare for terminal tests?
- 6) Are there samples for tests and exams after a few units?

Section 8: Teacher Training

For the present curriculum to be implemented successfully, it is important that both pre-service and in-service teacher training programs, should aim at familiarizing the teachers with the new curriculum, and training them for its implementation at classroom level in varied teaching and learning contexts. The overall objective of teacher training programs should be to develop critically aware “self directed”, reflective and analytical teachers who do not merely passively teach a text book but are willing to adapt and supplement the existing material with their own teaching materials and classroom activities. However, short in-service teacher training programs need to be conducted with the aim of enabling teachers to understand and teach the new curriculum using prescribed textbooks and handling supplementary materials. Similarly, longer teacher education programs at the diploma and bachelor's level should also focus on introducing the teachers to the new curriculum and its underlying philosophy, principles, related methodology and assessment procedures. Teachers, on their part should also be willing to improve and go through an attitudinal change, if required.

Majority of English language teachers in Pakistan have limited proficiency in English in general, and low proficiency in oral skills or in speaking English. It is a well-known fact that students learn from listening to the teacher and interacting with him/her both inside and outside the classroom. Hence, teacher training programs, wherever possible, should also aim at providing training in English language skills to improve the English language proficiency of the teachers. Moreover, teachers need to know that errors are likely to occur in foreign/second language learning; they can make use of this valuable information and can improve the general linguistic environment in their schools and classrooms.

Glossary

Absolute Adjective	Adjectives that do not have degrees e.g. alive, honest .
Accelerated reading	Accelerated reading under timed conditions in order to develop fluency along with comprehension.
Affix	A component part of a word which is added to a root word . An affix can be a prefix or a suffix e.g. disables, development, unemployment .
Alliteration	The repetition of consonant sounds - usually at the beginning of words to create poetic effect e.g. "The sun set slowly" has the alliteration of /s/.
Anagram	A word or phrase formed from another by transposing or rearranging the letters e.g. action – act, on, cat, tin; north – thorn, rot, horn .
Analogy	A likeness in some ways: (i) Between things that are otherwise unlike e.g. human heart and a pump . (ii) Similarity between two things or situations e.g. sheep is to lamb as cat is to kitten .
Anecdote	A brief narrative of an interesting, unusual or biographical event often used to illustrate a point.
Antecedent	A noun or a word that a pronoun refers to e.g. This is a book . It has nice stories.
Antithesis	Contrast of ideas e.g. to err is human, to forgive divine .
Apposition	A construction consisting of two or more adjacent units that have identical referents and serve the same grammatical function e.g. In the sentence, "Mr. Jamil, our neighbour, works in a factory", Mr. Jamil and our neighbour are words in apposition.
Appropriate	Numerous correct linguistic choices used in speech and in writing, according to purpose and situation.
Aside	Words spoken by an actor which the other actors are not supposed to hear. These are usually spoken to the audience .

Aural	Stimulation of hearing.
Authentic Texts	Oral and written texts that occur naturally in the target language environment and that have not been created, structured or edited specifically for language learners.
Backwash effect	The effect of testing on teaching and learning. Backwash can be harmful or beneficial. If test content and testing techniques are at variance with the course objectives, then the backwash is harmful, e.g. if the skill of writing is tested only by multiple choice items then the students will not practise the skill of writing itself.
Benchmark	An indication of what the students will be able to accomplish at the end of each developmental level in order to meet the standard .

Blurb	A brief description on the jacket of a book.
Brainstorming (brain storm)	A creativity technique of generating ideas to solve a problem. A pre-writing technique in which students, either alone or in groups, think of, or write down all words or phrases that come to mind, then chose to expand the range of available ideas, for a given topic.
Cartoon strip	A sequence of drawings telling a story in a newspaper or comic book.
Cataphoric and anaphoric references (see also pronoun antecedent relationship)	An expression that co-refers with a later expression in the discourse is said to have a cataphoric reference e.g. A little girl, Salma, was playing on the swings. (the description, a little girl , is provided in advance of the name). An expression that co-refers with an earlier expression in the discourse is said to have an anaphoric reference e.g. The monkey took the banana and ate it. (it refers to the banana, mentioned earlier)
Clause	A collection of words containing a subject and verb which forms part of a sentence. A clause may be independent/main or dependent/subordinate. An independent/main clause is a complete statement and can stand by itself e.g. I plan to enroll for summer school. A dependent/subordinate clause is not a complete statement and cannot stand by itself e.g. Since I want to enroll for summer school.
Cliché	An expression so often used that its originality and effectiveness has been lost e.g. white as snow, all in all.
Climax	A high point of interest or suspense in a story; point where the rising action reverses and becomes the falling action of the story.

Competency	A key learning area.
Consonant Cluster	A series of consonants pronounced together e.g. the sound /spl/ in splash , /st/ in stamp .
Cognate	Words that are the same or nearly the same in spelling, pronunciation, and meaning in two different languages e.g. English and Urdu words telephone, pen, bus, cricket are cognates.
Coherence/ Cohesion	Coherence refers to the unity of meaning(s) within and between sentences; while cohesion refers to unity of grammatical and lexical relationships among the elements of a sentence or between sentences.
Cohesive devices	Various devices used to make clear the relationship between the parts of a sentence, between sentences, or between paragraphs e.g. repetition of key words , use of reference words , sequence markers , and transitional devices .
Collocate/ collocation	Words that typically co-occur or usually go together e.g. heavy rain, pitch dark
Colloquial/ colloquialism	Conversational, informal language e.g. what's up, etc.
Complex sentence	A sentence made up of one main clause and at least one subordinate clause e.g. Although my friend invited me to a party, I do not want to go.

Compound preposition	Two or more words working together as a one-word preposition e.g. in front of, Out of.
Compound sentence (see also Complex sentence)	A sentence made up of two or more independent clauses but no subordinate clauses e.g. My friend invited me to a party, but I do not want to go.
Compound word/noun	A combination of two or more words (nouns) that function as a single unit of meaning e.g. bookshop, timetable.
Communicative functions	Reasons for communication e.g. to compliment, to apologize, to agree.
Conflict	The struggle between opposing forces that brings about the action within a story or drama. Conflict can be internal or external.
Connected speech	The changes that influence the pronunciation of individual words in natural, fluent speech. This is because fluent speech flows with a rhythm and the words bump into each other. To make speech flow smoothly the way we pronounce the end and beginning of some words can change depending on the sounds at the beginning and end of those words e.g. a chair 'n a table.
Connotation (see also Denotation)	The attitudes and feelings associated with a word as opposed to its literal meaning e.g. chair has connotation of power.
Context	The setting in which speech or writing takes place.
Contextual clues	Sources of information outside of words that readers may use to predict the identities and meanings of unknown words. Context clues may be drawn from the immediate sentence containing the word, from text already read, from pictures accompanying the text, or from definitions, restatements, examples, or descriptions in the text.
Contraction	A word shortened by leaving out some letters. The missing letters are indicated by an apostrophe e.g. I'll for I shall, don't for do not.
Creative writing/text	A term used to distinguish certain imaginative or different types of writing e.g. poems, stories, and autobiography.
Critical thinking	Critical thinking is the practice of thinking things through, in which one carefully describes something (an event, a book, a person, etc) and evaluates it according to some relevant criterion, considering significant alternatives.
Dangling modifiers	A phrase or clause which says something different from what is meant because words are left out or misplaced. The meaning of the sentence, therefore, is left "dangling." e.g. "After reading the original study, the article remains unconvincing" (The article--the subject of the main clause--did not read the original study.)
Denotation (see also Connotation)	The literal or "dictionary" meaning of a word.
Derivation	A process of deriving words from the entry word in a dictionary.
Dewey decimal	A classification system to classify library materials. It organizes human knowledge into ten main classes or topic areas.

Digraph	A group of two successive letters that represent a single sound e.g. ph for the sound /f/.
Diphthong	A sequence of two vowels in the same syllable e.g. the sound /eɪ/ in age, the sound /aɪ/ in right , etc.
Direct object	A noun or pronoun that receives the action of a verb or shows the result of the action. It answers the question "What?" or "Whom?" after an action verb e.g. "She helped me ", "we watched a play ".
Discourse	Connected speech or writing which is longer than a conventional sentence.
Ellipses	Three dots in a row signify that words or figures are missing. If there are four dots in a row, the fourth dot signifies a full-stop.
Entry	The basic section of a dictionary which deals with a single word and is arranged in alphabetical order. An entry deals with every aspect of the word, including: spelling, pronunciation, grammar, meaning or meanings, expressions (idioms) that include the word, and the derivatives of the word.
Entry word	A head word. One of the thousands of words that are arranged in alphabetical order in a dictionary
Etymology	(The study of) the origin of words. How their meaning changes or develops over time and how they fall into disuse.
Expository (Text)	Text written to explain and convey information about a specific topic.
Fable	A story intended to enforce a useful truth, especially one in which animals speak and act like human beings.
Figurative language	Expressive use of language in non-literal form to produce striking effect e.g. simile, metaphor, imagery .
Fluency	To read or speak smoothly without hesitation and with comprehension.
Format (see also layout)	The way a document / piece of writing or presentation is arranged.
Formulaic expression	A type of word or phrase expressing greetings, farewells, and apologies, e.g. hello, goodbye, sorry .
Free writing	Writing quickly, without stopping, without editing, or self-correcting to discover what one knows, thinks, or feels. The purpose is to develop confidence, creativity and fluency.
Front to back	Refers to how text runs from the front to the backside of a page.
Function and Co-function	A function is the purpose for which language is used e.g. to gratitude, to invite, to ask . A co-function responds to these functions e.g. to accept gratitude, to accept or decline an invitation, to reply .
Gapped summary	A summary with gaps to be filled in by the learner. It is used for structured or guided response from the learner.
Generate questions	Generating questions involves teaching students to ask their own questions. This strategy improves students' active processing of text and comprehension. For example, a student might be taught to ask main idea questions that relate to important information in a text.

Genre	A type of literature, such as a novel, poem, a play or a short story .
Gerund	A verb ending in -ing and used as a noun or an adjective e.g. “ swimming is good for health.”
Grammatical function	Purposes for which words and structures are used from grammar point of view e.g. the grammatical function of an adjective is to modify a noun .
Graphic organizer	Pictorial devices (such as diagrams, graphs, maps, etc.) used to summarize or illustrate concepts and show interrelationships among information and concepts in a text.
Graphical unit	A section of text that visually stands out as a separate part on the page. It is normally contrasted with meaningful unit where a part of text is identified with meaning.
Graphical features	Visual elements used to aid text e.g. pictures, diagrams, tables , etc.
Group dynamics	Phenomena that occur in groups based upon their interactions and interrelations.
Guide word	A word printed at the top of the page of a dictionary or other reference book to indicate the first or last item on that page.
Guided writing	Writing in which the teacher provides support to the learner where ever required. The purpose is to teach a specific skill or strategy.
Hard c	The /k/ sound represented by the letter c in cat, car, act , etc.
Hard g	The /g/ sound represented by the letter g in goat, again, legal , etc.
Homonym	A word which is spelled and pronounced identically to another word, but which has a different meaning e.g. spring - a water spring, spring - a season, spring - to jump, spring – a stretchable coil .
Homophone	A word which is spelled differently from another word, but which is pronounced identically e.g. hoarse versus horse ; or two versus, to or too .
Imagery	Figurative language used to produce mental pictures and appeal to senses e.g. He could still hear the melody in his imagination .
Indefinite pronoun	A pronoun that does not refer to a specific person/ place/ thing e.g. all, anybody, anything, each, and everybody .
Indirect object	An indirect object precedes the direct object and tells to whom or for whom the action of the verb is done, and who is receiving the direct object. There must be a direct object to have an indirect object e.g. She gave us the report.
Inference	The reasoning involved in drawing a conclusion or making a logical judgment on the basis of circumstantial evidence and prior conclusions rather than on the basis of direct observation.
Inferential question (see also question types)	A question that asks a responder to draw a conclusion.
Infinitive	The basic form of a verb without tense e.g. to work or work .

Inflection (see also derivation)	A grammatical change in the form of a word which leaves the 'base meaning' and the grammatical category of the word unchanged e.g. walk, walks, walked .
Inter-rater reliability	The consistency with which two or more judges / assessors rate the performance of test takers.
Intransitive verb	An intransitive verb is an action verb (i.e. it is neither a linking verb nor an auxiliary verb) which does not require a direct object e.g. The boy laughed .
Irony	Saying [or writing] one thing, whilst meaning the opposite e.g. to say well done when someone did not perform well.
Item analysis	Analysing each item on a test to determine the proportion of students selecting each answer. It helps to evaluate students' strengths and weaknesses, and may point to problems with the tests' validity and to possible bias.
Key idea	The main idea of each paragraph. Key ideas are used to develop the main idea of a composition.
Key word	Word or words that relate to a particular topic. A key word helps find out the required information.
Layout (see also format)	Visual presentation of text.
Left to right	Refers to how text in English runs from left to right across the page.
Legend	(1) A traditional story or collection of related stories popularly regarded as true but actually containing a mixture of fact and fiction. (2) A key to understand information about the colors and symbols used in a map.
Lexical items	An item of vocabulary which has a single element of meaning. It may be a compound word, phrase, idioms, multiword, prefabricated chunk, etc.
Lexical set	A group or family of words related to one another by some semantic principle: e.g. mutton, chicken, beef are all different types of meat and form a lexical set.
Linguistic exponent	Various language expressions that can be used to perform one communicative function e.g. In order to "express regret", one may say I am sorry, I'm very sorry + that-clause, I regret + noun, I regret + Verb + ing, etc.
Linking verb	A verb that does not show an action. Rather, it links or establishes a relationship between the subject and additional information about the subject e.g. be, appear, become, feel, seem, smell, taste, and sound .
Long and short vowel	(i) Relative duration of a vowel sound e.g. the /ɪ/ sound in ship is short; the /i:/ sound in sheep is long . (ii) A vowel sound associated with the name of the vowel letter (examples: a in lane , e in lean , i in line , o in bone , u in lute); note that long u imperfectly expresses the letter name of u .
Metaphor	A figure of speech in which one thing is described in terms of another e.g. All the world's a stage .
Mind map	a diagram used to represent words and ideas linked to and arranged radially around a central key word or idea. It is used to generate, visualize, structure and classify ideas, and as an aid in study, organization, problem solving, and decision making.

Minimal pair	A pair of items differing by one phonological feature; e.g. sit/set, ship/sheep, pen/pan, fan/pan, pan/pat .
Modal verb	An auxiliary verb like can, may, must etc. that modifies the main verb and expresses possibility, probability etc.
Modifier	An adjective or adverb that describes a word or makes the meaning of the word more specific. In English there are two parts of speech which are modifiers; adjectives and adverbs. Adjectives modify nouns and pronouns. Adverbs modify verbs, adjectives, and other adverbs.
Myth	An imaginary story that helps explain events in nature.
Narration	Direct and indirect speech.
Narrator (speaker)	The person (named or unknown) who is telling a story.
Narrative (text)	Text which conveys a story or which relates events or dialogue.
Neuter gender	A grammatical gender that includes nouns which refer to things that do not have natural distinction of sex e.g. chair, table .
Non-verbal (Communication)	Communication without the use of words, using, for example, sound effects, music, gesture, facial expression, posture, or other elements to contribute particular shades of meaning.
Open ended question (see also Question types)	A type of question intended to produce a free response rather than a structured or one-word response.
Panel discussion	A kind of interaction in which a group of people discuss a topic in the presence of an audience.
Pantomime	A performance using gestures and body movements without words.
Parallelism	The phrasing of language so as to balance (grammatically) ideas of equal importance. Parallelism may apply to phrases, sentences, paragraphs, longer passages or whole selections e.g. eat, drink and be merry .
Persuasive (see types of paragraph)	Writing that convinces the designated audience to support a point of view, make a decision, or take an action.
Phrasal verb	A verb that is made up of a verb together with a preposition or an adverb e.g. Get up, finish with somebody, fish for something, pull out, put up with somebody/something . These present particular problems for learners, as their meaning often bears no relation to the usual meaning of the verb alone.
Phrase (see also Clause)	A set of words which is a single indivisible unit and makes its sense clear only when used in a sentence e.g. to supply goods, into the house..
Plot	The careful sequencing of events in a story generally built around a conflict. Stages of plot include exposition, rising action, climax, falling action and resolution.
Point of view	A term from literary studies which describes the perspective or source of a piece of writing.

Post-reading	A group of reading strategies employed after reading a text such as responding to the text, providing a title.
Pre-reading	A group of reading strategies employed before reading a text such as predicting the content, anticipating vocabulary.
Pre-writing	The thinking and planning the writer does before drafting, which includes considering the topic, audience, and purpose; gathering information; choosing a form; determining the role of the writer; and making a plan.
Problem consonants	Consonant sounds that pose problem for learners. These can vary in different linguistic backgrounds.
Pronoun- antecedent relationship/ agreement	The connection between the pronoun and what it refers to e.g. In the sentence, "This is my book. It is interesting", book is antecedent for the pronoun it . A pronoun must agree with its antecedent in number and gender.
Purposeful	A text/ activity or task for real life purpose. Learning should not focus on mechanical drills; rather it should always be in a meaningful context with a clear purpose.
Question types	Types of comprehension question including (1) "right there" (literal/ textual/ factual), (2) "bring out meaning" (interpretive) "think and search" (inferential), (3) "author and me" (personal response), and (4) "on my own" (open ended).
Reading readiness strategies	Skills that help prepare learners (non readers) for the task of reading such as, holding a book, phonemic awareness, discerning shapes, conventions of print, etc.
Rebus	A puzzle where you decode a message consisting of pictures representing syllables and words e.g. I like playing  .
Reciprocal ability	Ability to form a response while listening.
Reference words	Words (usually pronouns and nouns) that refer to other words, phrases or clauses in the same text e.g. Look at the following example: " Something's gone wrong with my computer. I can't find a solution . Do you have an idea ?" The words solution and idea are reference words because they refer to the problem identified as something's gone wrong with my computer.
Relative pronoun	A pronoun that "relates" a subordinate clause to the rest of the sentence. A relative pronoun links two simple sentences (or clauses) into a single complex clause e.g. (1) This is a house. Ali built this house. (2) This is the house that Ali built.
Resolution	The ending of a story where conflicts are resolved and loose ends are tied together.
Role play	An instance or situation in which one deliberately acts out or assumes a particular character or role. Role play is used as a means to teach language for various communicative purposes.
Root/ root word (see also Stem)	The meaningful base form of a complex word as it appears after all affixes are removed. A root may be independent or free, as read in unreadable , or may be dependent or bound, as -liter- in illiterate .
Salutation	Any one of the various conventional forms of address with which a letter is begun, such as My Dear Friend, Dear Sir.

Sensory details	Details perceived by sight, hearing, smell or any mode by which one perceives stimuli outside or within the body.
Scanning	A type of reading used to locate a particular piece of information without necessarily attending to the other parts of a text.
Thought group	A group of words/ phrases that forms a brief unit of sense. A thought group is discretely spoken with a short pause to distinguish from other thought groups in the passage e.g. The sentence, “ The cat went over the wall, through the lawn, into the kitchen ”, can be easily broken into three thought groups marked by commas.
Sequence marker	A word or phrase that shows the sequence of information or ideas in a passage e.g. firstly, secondly, then, after that .
Setting	The time and place of the action of a story.
Show-and-tell	The process of showing an audience something and telling them about it. It is an elementary school technique for teaching young children the skills of public speaking. Usually, children will bring an item from home. They will explain to the class why they chose this item, where they got it from, and other relevant information.
Sight word	A word that is immediately recognized as a whole and does not require word analysis for identification.
Simile	A figure of speech in which one thing is directly likened to another e.g. as hard as nails .
Soft c	The /s/ sound that the letter c represents in city, percent, race , etc.
Soft g	The /j/ sound that the letter g represents in gentle, giant, age , etc.
Sound pattern	The regular (permissible) combinations of sounds in any language e.g. /str/, /sk/, /dr/.
Skimming	Getting the main idea of a story by looking quickly for the main topics and ideas. One can look at titles, headings, bold and italic words, and picture captions.
Speech bubbles	A graphic convention used in comic books, strips, and cartoons to allow words to be understood as representing the speech or thoughts of a given character.
Standard	A description of a particular competency by specifying broadly the knowledge, skills and attitudes which students will acquire throughout the developmental levels.
Stem (see also derivation and root)	The form of a word as it appears after all affixes are removed e.g. the combination of the basic form of a word (called the root) plus any derivation but excluding inflectional elements . This means, alternatively, that the stem is the form of the word to which inflections can be added, if applicable. For example, the root of the English verb form destabilized is stabil- (alternate form of stable); the stem is de-stabil-ize , which includes the derivational affixes de- and -ize , but not the inflectional past tense suffix -(e)d .
Stress	The relative emphasis given to certain syllable(s) in a word. Such syllables are uttered with more than usual force e.g. apPEAR, acCEPT, TIMber.
Student Learning Outcome	A statement that describes what students will be able to do as a result of instruction at a particular grade.
Style	Aspects of writing (or speech) which have an identifiable character generally used in a positive sense to indicate 'pleasing effects'.

Subject-verb agreement	The grammatical logic and coherence between subject and verb. The subject and verb must agree in number: both must be singular, or both must be plural e.g. " He is honest "; " they are friendly ".
Supporting details (see also unified paragraph)	Sentences that support the topic sentence or provide more detail about the topic sentence
SV / SVO pattern	SV pattern is Subject + Verb pattern in a sentence e.g. he laughs . SVO pattern is Subject + Verb + Object pattern in a sentence e.g. She likes mangoes .
Syllable	A word or part of a word that can be pronounced with one impulse from the voice e.g. beau-ti-ful (three syllables), ap-pear (two syllables), etc.
Syntax	The arrangement of words to show relationships of meaning within a sentence.
Textual aid	Clues in the text that aid comprehension.
Top to bottom	Refers to how text runs down the page after completion of each line.
Thesis statement	The sentence(s) carrying basic argument advanced by a speaker or writer who then attempts to prove it; the subject or major argument of a speech or composition.
Tone	An author's or speaker's attitude, as revealed in 'quality of voice' or 'selection of language'.
Topic sentence	The sentence, usually at the beginning of a paragraph, which tells what the main idea of the paragraph.
Transactional writing	Writing which is intended to convey factual information or to argue the validity of a point of view with objective evidence. Transactional writing is typical of the language of science, technology, trade, reporting, persuasion, legal argument, and debate.
Transitional device	Word(s) that show the flow of ideas to help readers along through a text e.g. first, for instance, to conclude, therefore .
Transitive verb (see also intransitive verb)	An action or linking verb whose meaning is incomplete without a direct object e.g. The child broke is an incomplete sentence unless we add a direct object like The child broke a plate .
Trigraph	A three-letter sequence representing a single sound e.g. igh in the words high, thigh , etc.
Triphthong	A vowel combination usually involving a quick, but smooth movement from one vowel to another that passes over a third one e.g. vowel sounds in the words higher, flower, layer etc.
Usage	The usage of a language item is the grammatical rules for making it. The (most simple) usage of the second conditional is If + past simple, would + infinitive . Example The second conditional: If I had enough money, I would take a vacation.

Use	The use of a language item is its communicative purpose as used by native speakers. The use of the second conditional is Talking about the consequences of hypothetical situations in the present or future.
Visual cue	Information presented in a visual form e.g. pictures, photographs, etc.
Visuals/ audio-visual aids	Training or educational materials directed at both, the sense of hearing and the sense of sight. Materials that provide pictures and/or sounds to assist learning or teaching e.g. flip charts, overhead transparencies, graphical presentations, computer-based presentations, chalkboards, slide presentations, videos, films etc.
Voice	Active and passive voice.
Weak form	A form (of function words) that may be used when the word has no stress e.g. “bread ‘n butter”.
While-reading	Reading strategies to be applied during reading a text e.g. skimming, scanning.
Word class	Parts of speech.
Word family	A group of words sharing the same root or base, as phon- in phonemic, phonation, telephone, etc.
Writer’s craft	Choices an author/poet makes when writing a text (e.g., organizational pattern, style, vocabulary, images, symbols, point of view, and audience).
Writing process	A sequence of steps in writing, typically including: (1) planning, (2) drafting, (3) revising, (4) editing, and (5) publishing.
Writing readiness	Skills that help prepare learners for the task of writing e.g. motor skills, holding a pencil correctly, drawing, copying, tracing, making loops, strokes, etc.
